(Actually David had decided to study in the UK and he knew that I had also been thinking about it...)

The conversation: reported speech

He asked me if I had decided which university I wanted to apply to... and I told him that actually I had not really thought about it very much and I still didn't have a lot of information...

He said that he had seen a really helpful video on YouTube – some students at different universities – I think about 6 as far as I remember - talked honestly about their experience...

I asked him if he could give me the name of the video or the address on YouTube – but he said we could watch it together – he had saved the address on his computer and he wanted to watch it again...

He thought it had been very useful for him and would be for me...
